

P.O. - Programme Outcome

1. The course provide basic information about human.
2. The programme has been framed in such a manner that students receive real feel of quality education by touching all aspects of human lifecycle.
3. Develop the ability to address the complexities & interface among self, social and national priorities.
4. Developing Scientific and practical approach among the students pertaining to their day - to - day life.
5. To prepare young students for studies, research and extension work.

Program specific outcomes -

1. Understand the concepts of different areas of home science.
2. Develop comprehensive and analytical skill in food industry and health sectors.
3. Inculcate insights in public health nutrition for employment in state and Central Government.
4. Grow into knowledgeable and skilled human resources employable in food industries, hospitals and textile industries.
5. Comprehend the methods in textile and garment production.

1. The Course provide basic information about human physiology and human organ.
2. The course is designed to provide information about - Develop Desirable attitudes to towards integrated ruler & Urban development.
3. Students will study about the community Development problems & Role of Home Scientists.
4. Develops an understanding of the classification of traditional textile based on the process of making it.